

Atonomi FAQ

Q: I am a Developer, how do I access the Atonomi Embedded SDK?

A: You can download the beta version of the Atonomi Embedded SDK from GitHub at <https://github.com/atonomi>

Q: Where are the Atonomi Smart Contracts?

The Atonomi Smart Contracts are expected to go live on the Ethereum blockchain in post-token release. Meanwhile, the smart contract source code is available for review here: <https://github.com/atonomi/smart-contracts>.

Q: What documentation is available?

A: Please download our Atonomi Quick Start Guide for Developers at www.github.com/atonomi where you will also find ReadMe files and technical documentation for the Atonomi Embedded SDK. We have also provided commenting throughout the code for the SDK and smart contracts.

Q: How do I get technical questions answered as a developer?

A: If you come across a question not covered in our documentation, you can contact us at devteam@atonomi.io

Q: I am a Manufacturer, how do I sign-up?

Our Manufacturer Registration site will go live post coin release. Meanwhile, please contact us at onboarding@atonomi.io

Q: Can I purchase Atonomi Tokens?

A: The Atonomi whitelist for the token generation event is now closed. We are now processing the applications in the order received and working to clear as many people as possible before the public sale. For more information, please see <https://atonomi.io/news-posts/atonomi-whitelist-closed>

Q: When do I receive my ATMI Tokens?

A: ATMI Tokens will be distributed to purchasers shortly after completion of our token generation event. Prior to coin release we will post information on how to setup wallets and register/activate devices.

Q: When will the Atonomi Network be live?

A: The Atonomi Network will go live—enabling the registration and activation of devices onto the Atonomi Network shortly after completion of the token generation event. Prior to the Network going live, more information will be posted here with instructions on how to login to the site. You can also contact us with network questions at golive@atonomi.io

Q: Who can I contact for additional questions?

A: For additional information, please contact us at info@atonomi.io